in han china 202 bce 220 ce few luxury objects were as widely coveted as bronze mirrors typically circular and ranging from seven to thirty centimeters in diameter these mirrors were crafted from high tin bronze with highly reflective surfaces on the front and intricate designs and auspicious inscriptions on the reverse the allure of the mirror explores how and why these objects historically known as haowu fine things became so beloved throughout early imperial china tracing their production and consumption from manufacture in imperial princely and private workshops to their roles in life and death yanlong guo uncovers the varied ways these seemingly trivial objects took on social and cultural significance across social classes mirrors had a wide range of uses as status symbols personal tools romantic tokens family heirlooms auspicious amulets treasured gifts and funeral offerings guo demonstrates how these fine things once exclusive to elites gradually became accessible to a wider segment of society mirrors he argues connected people across the empire fostering a shared cultural community of aesthetic tastes and social values from royal courts to rural households interdisciplinary and comprehensive the allure of the mirror offers fresh insights into the relationship among art society and ideology in the han empire revealing how decorative objects could bridge social divides and shape cultural identity castle extremis whoever holds it can control the provinces either side that have been at war for centuries now the castle is about to play host to the signing of a peace treaty but as the doctor and martha find out not everyone wants the war to end who is the strange little girl who haunts the castle what is the secret of the book the doctor finds its pages made from thin brittle glass who is the hooded figure that watches from the shadows and what is the secret of the legendary mortal mirror the doctor and martha don t have long to find the answers an army is on the march and the castle will soon be under siege once more featuring the tenth doctor and martha as played by david tennant and freema agyeman in the hit sci fi series from bbc television this is an introductory level text with emphasis on lacan s theoretical relationship to education and which uses lacan s theories as a springboard for a different educational discourse one that forces us to assess inward rather than outward to move beyond the linear nature of schools a context exacerbated by developmental psychologists like piaget and erikson who theorized that we can understand children s development in stages the author argues that lacan s theories allow us to holistically educate to teach cognizant of the relationship between interior and exterior spaces between the unspoken and the heard the text serves four purposes 1 to translate lacan s primary ideas into language appropriate for introductory level college students 2 to examine identity in ways that are relevant across disciplines 3 to re frame lacan s work with post structuralist and postmodern theories and in so doing create a distinctive analysis of the self predefined yet reinvented and 4 to juxtapose lacan s work with post formal thinking and theorize about his relevance to public education this book is purposefully organized with specific emphasis on lacan s work as a teacher and the ways in which his theories complicate current accountability standards in the united states which insist that good teaching and learning is quantifiable the author foregrounds lacan s concepts of identity and language and analyzes those in parallel to the discourses of democratic education lacan s theories do provide some indelible possibilities for public education in the twenty first century considering his relevance to post structuralism post formalism post colonialism and postmodernism a lacanian perspective of public education would defy the current standardization of curriculum in the wake of no child left behind nclb mandates using lacan the author re envisions public education as a process which encourages the distinctiveness of students challenges normative assumptions about what a good student is and demands that teachers facilitate student understanding of multiple truths but that teachers also engage in an honest reconstruction of history one that acknowledges the brutality of conquest the arrogance of imperialism and the illusiveness elusiveness of peace using the south african truth and reconciliation process as a framework the author ends by constructing a model for public education which is grounded in truth telling in public spaces witnessing as a political practice and educating as purposeful work a lacanian post formal curriculum at its core thus requires that we seek and identify truths we work to become integrated beings by hearing the unconscious that which we do not want to or cannot face and that we educate for goodness and wholeness this book is ultimately a call to re envision the current public educational system in the u s a call to admit that it has inexcusably failed far too many children and a call to construct entirely different possibilities
