describes the indigenous Australian culture including fine arts legends and the culture's global influence indigenous culture can be found around the globe from the many aboriginal groups present in australia to the inuit groups of north america and masai tribes of africa throughout this book students will discover the similarities and differences in language traditions and religion that exist between the world s indigenous groups they will also investigate the sustainability of indigenous practices and the united nations declaration on the rights of indigenous peoples it is a common belief that aboriginal people of predominantly mixed descent living in australian cities country towns and aboriginal communities have lost their culture often lacking the more obvious markers of aboriginal identity such as ceremonies and the general use of an indigenous language they are regarded as not being real aborigines recent anthropological research refutes these misconceptions this book brings together the results of research by anthropologists who have worked in urban and rural communities in settled australia and the chapters document many aspects of aboriginal social life and its development in a world characterized by an encroaching homogeneity induced by the growth of multi national corporations and globalization the causes of difference accrue new levels of importance this is as true of tourism as in many other spheres of life and one cause of differentiation for tourism promotion is the culture of indigenous peoples this offers opportunities for cultural renaissance income generation and enhanced political empowerment but equally there are possible costs of creating commodities out of aspects of life that previously possessed spiritual meaning this book examines these issues from many different perspectives from those of product design and enhancement of the aspirations of various minority groupings and the patterns of displacements that occur displacements that are not simply spatial but also social and cultural how can these changes be managed case studies and analysis is offered derived from many parts of the globe including north america asia and australasia the contributors themselves have in many instances worked closely with groups and organizations of indigenous peoples and attempt to give voice to their concerns the book is divided into various themes each with a separate introduction and commentary the themes are visitor experiences who manages indigenous cultural tourism product events and artifacts conceptualisation and aspiration in a short final section the silences are noted each silence representing a potential challenge for future research to build upon the notions and lessons reported in the book the book is edited by professor chris ryan from new zealand and michelle aicken of horwath asia pacific
