the volume examines how in the twenty first century narratives built around connectivity have become a structural component of international politics expanding into a wider array of policy fields i it examines the significance of this emerging narrative from an indian perspective with particular reference to eurasian alternatives it argues that this represents the next stage of globalization and that an understanding of this is increasingly becoming crucial given the recent disruptions along with the emergence of a spate of new policies and institutions that could eventually lead to a new understanding of connectivity this volume presents six alternative approaches to studying second language acquisition alternative in the sense that they contrast with and or complement the cognitivism pervading the field all six approaches sociocultural complexity theory conversation analytic identity language socialization and sociocognitive are described according to the same set of six headings allowing for direct comparison across approaches each chapter is authored by leading advocates for the approach described james lantolf for the sociocultural approach diane larsen freeman for the complexity theory approach gabriele kasper and johannes wagner for the conversation analytic approach bonny norton and carolyn mckinney for the identity approach patricia duff and steven talmy for the language socialization approach and dwight atkinson for the sociocognitive approach introductory and commentary chapters round out this volume the editor s introduction describes the significance of alternative approaches to sla studies given its strongly cognitivist orientation lourdes ortega s commentary considers the six approaches from an enlightened traditional perspective on sla studies a viewpoint which is cognitivist in orientation but broad enough to give serious and balanced consideration to alternative approaches this volume is essential reading in the field of second language acquisition
