the prevailing mediation model and process is drawn primarily from the west for a long time there has been a call for conflict management approaches that are more appropriate for the asian context this book answers the call by identifying cultural values and norms that affect how conflicts may be perceived through asian lenses and how conflict management processes and practices should be structured the central metaphor is partly constructed out of michel foucault s metaphor of the ship of fools in madness and civilization building on foucault s brilliant argument the three themes of hope progress and optimism as used in this book represent idiomatic expressions of the business of modernity that have developed since the time of the industrial revolution in the west with this in mind this book has been designed for upper level undergraduates graduate students and readers who are interested in contemporary political theory those with a background in business philosophy political theory popular culture economics international relations cultural studies literary studies and american government will discover themselves at an advantage in understanding the issues explored in the book it avoids overtly dense theories that often cloud the issue of globalisation and uses plain english to make sense of the most important political phenomenon in the world today this book uses the american case as a way to understand the complex phenomena of globalization readership policy makers researchers tertiary students and all those interested in the effects of globalisation on modern america the consequence impact on asia and rest of the world taking mainly japanese and other asian case studies as examples ogino examines the motivations behind the preservation of objects and sites considered to be of cultural significance using mainly the perspectives of japanese approaches to cultural heritage the book critiques the european logic of cultural heritage enshrined by unesco it contrasts a western emphasis on monuments and sites with an asian emphasis on more intangible forms of heritage which place less emphasis on a linear view of time more practically the authors also analyse the positive and negative impacts that unesco listed status has had on sites in asia including angkor wat nagasaki and lijiang finally they address fundamental questions about who gets to decide what counts as cultural heritage and what the underlying rationale is for actively preserving heritage in the first place this books is a thoughtful and provocative analysis of issues that will be of interest to sociologists as well as scholars and students of cultural heritage
