conventional metaphorical expressions are widely used by native speakers in everyday language and have received extensive attention in theoretical semantics and cognitive linguistics however how a second language learner can acquire those expressions is left largely unknown researchers and language learners face the question if one has acquired the literal meaning of a word can they automatically derive the metaphorical meaning this book provides the answer by placing the question of acquisition of metaphorical expressions in the framework of bilingual lexicon assessing whether metaphorical expressions are taken for granted by second language learners it explores how the metaphorical meanings of a word should be connected in a learner's mental lexicon and how the cross linguistic availability of a metaphorical expression could affect the outcome of acquisition of that expression the book also provides a detailed comparison between metaphorical expressions and other figurative language from both the theoretical and experimental perspectives
