hailed by Jean Cocteau as a masterpiece and by the Guardian as Bret Easton Ellis's Less Than Zero avant la lettre this taut tale written by a teenager in the form of a frank confession is a gem of early twentieth century romanticism long unavailable in the U.S. It is here presented in a sparkling new translation set in Paris during the first world war it tells the story of François the 16 year old narrator who falls in love with Marthe an older married woman whose husband is off fighting at the front what seems to begin as a charming tale of puppy love quickly darkens and they launch into a steamy affair in the tense environment of the wartime city their love takes on a desperation transcending their youthfulness and as the badly kept secret of their relationship unfolds scandal descends leading the story to a final startling conclusion and causing the book itself to become a scandal when it was first published in 1923 just before the author's death at the age of 20

I wrote this book because I feel there is a reason for all that is going on in the world a cauldron of misery suffering anguish and strife everyone is caught up in it and those who feel they are not or feel they have an educated reason and philosophy for what they see are not seeing the bigger picture most people come up with the biggest most elaborate questions and answers but most do not tap into another reason or meaning for what life is about and what is transpiring what if there is a very deeper meaning deeper purpose besides the basic fundamentals of life that we know of and our purpose here what if everything we say do and think about are just conforming to our own selfish reasons I am trying to put forth the argument of what the real reasons are the answers so many accept and try to figure out based on nothing else but the theoretical speculation and trial and error the most brilliant minds in the world the most compelling arguments explanations and theories have played and still play a major role into where we are where we are going and what we have reduced ourselves to while many may look to rationalize an incoherent world with rational thought many are ignoring what could be a devastating calamity taken place right under our noses something so subtle that it is less resound than a feather hitting the ground half way around the world yet would have the impact to wipe out humanity or create hell on earth inventive in its approach and provocative in its analysis this study offers fresh readings of the arguments and practices of four seventeenth century euro american women anne bradstreet anne hutchinson sor juana inés de la cruz and marie de l incarnation tamara harvey here compares functionalist treatments of the body by these women offering a new way to think of corporeality as a device in literary and religious expressions of modesty by women in doing so harvey explores the engagement of these women in ongoing religious political scientific and social debates that would have been understood by the authors contemporaries in both europe and america the book of love is a twisted fairytale about a young girl growing up in america searching for the truth in a world of falsehoods only to discover her real identity authors cook and lawless aim to equip everyday christians to understand what scripture teaches about spiritual warfare and how believers can practically apply scriptural principles
