this book sheds new light on the unfolding of reformation in england by examining the ideological development of catholicism in the formative years between the break with rome and the consolidation of elizabethan protestantism it argues that the undoubted strength of catholicism in these years may have come less from its traditionalism and its resistance to change than from its ability to embrace reforming principles the humanist elements within henry viii s religious policies encouraged the development of the erasmian potential already well established in english catholic thought a dominant strain of catholic ideology emerged which attempted not only to defend but also to reform the catholic faith and to promote the study of scripture the use of the vernacular and the refashioning of doctrine this provided the basis for attempts to launch a catholic reformation under mary i and remained influential during the early years of elizabeth until reconfigured by the experience of exile and the drive for counter reformation uniformity Dr Wooding shows that catholicism in this period was neither a defunct tradition nor one merely reacting to protestantism but a vigorous intellectual movement responding to the reformist impulse of the age its development illustrates the english reformation in microcosm scholarly humanist practical and preserving its own peculiarities distinct from european trends it shows that reform was not a protestant reserve but a broad concern in which many participated rethinking catholicism in reformation england makes an important contribution to the intellectual history of the reformation book jacket
