qingyun wu's work is a unique discovery in literary studies in the west. chinese utopian literature paired with its english counterparts form an original and valuable contribution to world literature in widely varying historical and cultural texts that span the last five centuries. wu analyzes the theme of female rule including a critique of patriarchy and emphasizing a vision for women. to date, chinese utopias have been insufficiently explored and unavailable to western scholars. wu's theories of the politics of female rule as seen in chinese and english literature since the end of the sixteenth century are predicated on three significant changes that have taken place during those periods. these include an outright rejection of rule by women to rule by women in the guise of men, from individual to collective female rule, and from an idealized matrilineality to anarchism by the female principle. works examined include edmund spenser's The Faerie Queene, luomaodeng's Sanbao's Expedition to the Western Ocean, florence dixie's Gloriana, charlotte perkins gilman's Herland, ursula k. leguin's The Dispossessed, chen duansheng's The Destiny of the Next Life, li ruzhen's The Flowers in the Mirror, and bai hua's The Remote Country of Women. this critical view of the development of feminist utopias in both the east and west will be of interest to scholars of women's studies, political science, and anthropology, as well as to those in literature for both the classical and modern periods.

wu zhao (624–705), better known as wu zetian or empress wu, is the only woman to have ruled china as emperor over the course of its 5,000-year history. how did she, in a predominantly patriarchal and androcentric society, ascend the dragon throne, exploring a mystery that has confounded scholars for centuries? this multifaceted history suggests that china's rich pantheon of female divinities and eminent women played an integral part in the construction of wu zhao's sovereignty. wu zhao deftly deployed language, symbol, and ideology to harness the cultural resonance, maternal force, divine energy, and historical weight of buddhist deities, confucian exemplars, daoist immortals, and mythic goddesses, establishing legitimacy within and beyond the confines of confucian ideology. tapping into powerful subterranean reservoirs of female power, wu zhao built a pantheon of female divinities carefully calibrated to meet her needs. at court, her pageant was promoted in scripted rhetoric reinforced through poetry, celebrated in theatrical productions, and inscribed on steles, rendered with deft political acumen and aesthetic flair. these affiliations significantly enhanced wu zhao s authority and cast her as the human vessel through which the pantheon s divine energy flowed her strategy is a model of political brilliance and proof that medieval chinese women enjoyed a more complex social status than previously known
